Drying preparations simply developed by dry distillation; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial price will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 113 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and inflamed surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

OLD TUNES.

Old tunes, old tunes! How memory croons
Their rhythm through my soul tonight
Of joy replete or pathos sweet,
In scenes that charm my raptur'd sight!

A form once loved, by fancy moved,
Enthralls me as in days ago,
And bright eyes beam with love's first dream—
Lips warm unto mine own.

Hand clasps hand in friendship's bond
O'er vows once broken, now restored,
And laughter low, with music's flow,
Vibrates with one accord.

Oh, tender past; weird, mystic past!
Fain would I dream the pleasures o'er,
And times, old times that memory croons,
Thrill through my soul forevermore.

—Richard Pelham in Washington Post.

A Leviathan's Revenge.

By M. Quad.

[Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.]

We were bound for Alljos Island, off the coast of Lower California, in the bark Dolphin, to look for an old wreck of 40 years before. One day, when yet 200 miles to the north of the island, a whale suddenly breached within 300 feet of our craft, which was making only about three knots an hour under a light breeze. The monster of the deep shot to the surface and above it as if propelled by an engine of 1,000 horsepower. At least 40 feet of his great body was in the air when he came down with a crash, and the fall kicked up such a sea that the bark was boarded by three waves in succession. Instead of sinking out of sight or making off the whale kept company with the vessel and gradually edged down toward us until a man could have tossed his cap over the rail on the broad back covered with patches of barnacles. Almost as the whale shot up from the depths of the sea our mate, whose name was Davids, cried out:

"Before heaven, but that's old Sam Patch, and he's after me!"

We had come out of a California port with a picked crew, excepting the mate. I mean by that that Captain Chambers knew his men personally, most of whom had sailed with him before. At the last moment the old mate of the bark had met with an accident, and Davids had been given the berth at was up to all our tricks. For seven long hours he hung to us, and then of a sudden he sank out of sight without so much as a splash. We argued that he had gone for good, and it was a weight off our minds, but Davids shook his head in a mournful way and replied:

"Sam Patch came here after me, and he won't leave for good till he gets me. He's only off to feed."

We reached the island without having seen more of him, however. As we came within a mile of the north shore the bark was thrown into the wind, the boat lowered, and Davids was to be rowed in to sound the depth and find a safe anchorage. Three sailors took their places at the oars, and the boat shored off. It was a sunny sky and a calm sea, with never a thought of danger, but the yawl had not pulled above a cable's length from us and every man in the bark had his eye on her when she suddenly rose in the air with a crashing, rending noise. Below her appeared the great head of Sam Patch, and it was thrust upward until the stove boat was lifted 30 feet high and then slid off. When ten feet more of the body was exposed to view, the whale fell over with a mighty swash, rolled his great body over and over three or four times and then disappeared beneath the surface.

We had a second boat down by no time to pick up the men, but while four had gone in the boat there were only three to rescue. The trio were more or less knocked about and almost frightened to death, but they had come off better than the mate. Whether the whale seized him in its mouth or drowned him as it rolled we could not say, but our search for the body was in vain, and Sam Patch disappeared to trouble us no more.

The Fate of the Fly.

At one of the English-German schools in the city a teacher recently announced to a class of very young girls that they could have 20 minutes to write a composition on any subject of their own selection. A bright girl, whose head is adorned with a liberal supply of beautiful auburn hair, handed in the following:

"Flies from Flyland.—Mrs. Fly had a very great deal of trouble with her children. They worried the old lady so much she did not know what to do. One little fly—Worst One by name—never did obey his mother. Now, of course, there never yet was a case of disobedience which was not punished in some manner. If you do wrong and nobody is around to punish you, you usually knock against something or fall down and hurt yourself."

"We will see now what little Worst One did and how he was punished. One day he and his brothers had a chat, and in it they spoke of the jam that the cook left standing on the kitchen table, and they all determined to get just the tiniest bit of it, and they went. Now, the mother knew of this, and she went with them, and of course she did not scold. Oh, no! Why, every fly eats jam, but you must not go inside the jam jar, as no one knows what will happen to you if you do. Just rest on the top, the mother said."

"The others were all afraid and did not go in, but little Worst One, he did not care; he was going in, and in he went in spite of what his mother said. And what do you think happened to him?"

"Never before in the history of flies did such a strange thing happen. You think he died and remained there, don't you? You are mistaken. They did get him out, but he had a terrible punishment, and he had to carry it with him ever afterward. His hair had turned red with fright. I believe after that he obeyed his mother."

The teacher gave this composition "100."—Baltimore Sun.

Queer Nests of Fishes.

During a winter vacation the rare opportunity was given me of studying the nest building habits of a small flat fish that frequents the shallow places in Lake Superior, N. H.

My fish had selected a quiet cove within a few feet of the shore and quite near a row of cottages. Presumably they were less in fear of man than of the finny tribe. Their nests were circular in form and about the size of a bushel basket. They were hollowed out in the center like a saucer and were kept in perfect shape and beautifully clean by a swift, fanlike motion of the tall fin of the fish, held in a perpendicular position. The bottom of the lake being of a dark color and these nests made of white sand, you could easily see what a neat house-keeper this little fish was. Each nest had its owner, who fought for her "hearth and home" with great valor, chasing off every intruder and seldom being vanquished in the fray.

This pugnacious creature was essentially a home body, seldom leaving a nest except to dart off a few in quest of food or in hot pursuit of an invader. This little fish is a bold robber as well as a valiant fighter. I noticed one of the largest specimens drive a smaller one from her nest again and again and then take possession of it, spending her time between her own nest and the one she had robbed. I counted three dozen of these nests, not more than a foot apart. Some of these fish were beautifully colored.

I went down to the lake very early one morning to take a look at my pets. The water was very calm and clear. Nearly all of the fish were lying perfectly still in the center of their nest, apparently fast asleep.—Interstate Journal.

Her Inheritance.

"Your daughter's voice," said the professor, after the first lesson, "really has a fine timbre."

"There!" said Mrs. Rocksley. "I always knew it. I've told my husband ever since the day Adeline was born that she took after him. He was in the lumber business when we got married."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Cases of Queer Revenge.

In England, where men have more time for everything, including revenge, some queer methods of playing even have come into the courts.

Albert Beardsley of Leeds had a dog that howled at night. A naturalist next door did not like it, but had no legal recourse.

One day ants of the minute red variety began to overrun Beardsley's house. Nothing that could be done headed them off. They grew worse and worse. He had made up his mind to break his lease and move when one night he heard a noise in his dining room. Slip, plump down, he found the naturalist emptying a bag of ants on the floor.

In court the naturalist paid damages, but he did it smilingly.

Rowley, the late English violinist, was hard to beat on his perseverance against one who had incurred his ill will.

Rowley had a quarrel with a horse dealer named Brant. It was a trivial matter, but Rowley took the next house to Brant, set up a piano, bought a cornet and proceeded to make insomnia for Brant.

After one or two assault cases in court Brant moved. Rowley hunted out the next door neighbor and followed with piano and cornet. Brant went to law, but found he could do nothing. Failing, he took a detached house. Then Rowley hired brass bands and organs and assailed him. This was actionable, and Rowley paid £1,000 for his revenge.

The Golfer's Pun.

At a recent auction sale one of the paintings had for a subject a gayly attired golf girl making a long drive. The bidding on this opened very brisk—$50, $65, $70 and finally $72.

"Seventy-two, two, two, two!" cried the auctioneer.

"Fore!" shouted some one in the rear.

With the exception of the golfer in the front row, who immediately "ducked," the joke passed unnoticed.

"Four," repeated the auctioneer. "Do I hear five?"

He did not hear "five," and a cold sweat broke out on the brow of the bidder as now, for the first time, the possibility of having to buy that picture occurred to him. Seventy-four dollars for making a pun! He made a solemn vow then and there that he would never attempt another as with a sickly grin he thought of unpaid bills. The attendant was standing at his elbow; the auctioneer had raised his hammer. "One—two—three!"

"Five!"

The ordeal was past. The auction proceeded, with the crowd unaware that the punster had received proper punishment.

For the benefit of those who do not play golf a diagram of the pun is furnished. "Fore" is the warning shouted by the player when about to drive.—New York Mail and Express.

How Accidents Become Habits.

As to our mannerisms, says a writer in the Baltimore Sun, at first they are accidents, and afterward they become habits. It is singular how easy it is to convince a credulous public that a misfortune is a gift, just as an eccentricity is a mark of genius. Your correspondent knows a lady who was asked in marriage by several gentlemen (for where one pastures others will follow), although she was neither beautiful nor clever nor rich, but because she was affected with a trembling of the lips. In her inmost heart she who addresses you believes the trembling began with nervousness, but it was universal, and after a little what was curious began to be regarded as fascinating. At any rate I know a well established, portly lady, married to a man who secured her, not without difficulty, whose only sorrow is the necessity of keeping up the girlish habit which procured her a spouse. He is not a sentimentalist, but he wants what he paid for. He married her because her eyelids trembled, and not unnaturally he wishes to be possessed of the same treasure.

H. H. GRANICE - EDITOR

The advantages of a presidential tour are many and they are not confined to the President. In the first place it gives the newspapers a great deal to talk about. We are told just when the President retires, when he gets up, what he eats, how he dresses, when he gets into a carriage, what he says—this at least twice. We are told of his bravery when in front of a camera, of his athletic abilities. And all of these things are faithfully depicted. The hotel in which he is pictured to us. We become familiar with all sections of the country. It is probable that we of Sonoma are better acquainted with Redlands than we were before the coming of the President. In the papers we read of her wonderful resources. We see pictures of her beautiful residences, her business streets and her distinguished citizens.

Incidentally the President learns something about the country. However, it must in the majority of instances be a wrong impression that he receives. What can he discover concerning the business activity of any place when it is practically suspended in order that roses may be strewn in his way? But the chief glory of any country is its people and these the President is seeing by the thousand—all of them welcoming him, opening their doors to him, striving in every way to make his visit as pleasant as possible. So it would seem that the chief advantages the President will derive from this tour will be a better acquaintance with the people, a more nearly perfect understanding of their spirit.

And the people are becoming better acquainted with each other and are incidentally discovering that the President wears a silk tie—not a crown.

A Southern California contemporary relieves its pent-up enthusiasm as follows: "McKinley's coming to our town, we've got our bib and tucker down; we've creased our pants and blacked our shoes since we have heard the joyful news. Our whiskers we have trimmed with care, and we propose to cut our hair and wash our feet and scrub our face before McKinley strikes the place. We'll give the glad and happy hand, and celebrate to beat the band, with all the high-toned people who expect to come here on review. We'll tog right up, and we may add, we'll swear we'll not get drunk be damned! Hurrah for Mac! He is the stuff, we'll give him a daisy puff, for he and Teddy are a pair that can't be beaten anywhere."

The last Legislature passed a new estray law, providing that any person finding estray animals upon his premises, or upon premises to which he has the right of possession, or upon highways adjacent thereto, may take up the same and have a lien thereon for all expenses incurred and costs of keeping and caring for said animals. This virtually makes every person in the State owning or leasing property a legal pound master.

Dr. A. E. Osborne, President of the Board of Trade, made an excellent suggestion at the meeting last Saturday. He suggested that the Board of Trade meetings be divided up as between Sonoma, Glen Ellen and El Verano. This is no more than right and proper, made up as the Board of Trade is of citizens from all parts of the valley. It were hardly fair to have all the meetings in Sonoma.

Famous Horses for the Fair Ranch.

Manager Sinclair of the Fair ranch has returned from the East with the imported shire stallion "Moore's Combination," said to be one of the finest draft stallions in the world. He weighs 2,080 pounds and is coal black. The Fair estate paid a large price for the horse. He was imported from England to Illinois several years ago.

FATAL HUNTING ACCIDENT.

Knight H. Whipple Disembowled With a Shotgun.

Knight H. Whipple, a well-known resident of Cloverdale, met with a shocking death while out hunting near that place Tuesday, says the Press Democrat.

Early in the afternoon, in company with Principal Cauch of the Cloverdale public school, Mr. Whipple started for a little outing. The two gentlemen were driving in a light buggy.

At a point about opposite the Cloverdale Orange Company's place, and less than a mile from town, the hunters separated, Professor Cauch walking around a slight elevation and Mr. Whipple driving through the field. When the latter started he had his shotgun balanced across his knees.

Professor Cauch had proceeded but a short distance when he heard what appeared to be the sound of a muffled shot. Hurrying back he found his companion mortally wounded. In driving across a small ditch a sudden lurch had thrown Mr. Whipple forward, the gun had dropped down, striking the back of the hammers on the front axle and discharging the contents of both barrels directly into the unfortunate man's abdomen. He had been practically disembowelled.

The injured man was wedged between the front wheel of the buggy and the bed. The horse was struggling but had been unable to pull the buggy from the ditch, in which the mud was deep and very sticky. The dying man was carried to a shady spot and several farm hands working in a field near by arriving about that time, a physician was hurriedly sent for, but he arrived too late. Mr. Whipple lived but a few moments after being shot.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

"Barbara Frietchie" in San Francisco.

Standing out prominently from the many features that have been arranged to greet the Nation's President upon his forthcoming visit to San Francisco is the stirring patriotic drama "Barbara Frietchie," which will have its first presentation west of Chicago at the California Theatre on Sunday night, May 12th. This is one of the most stupendous dramatic productions of the past two years in the east, where it has created an unprecedented furore, and now that it is at last to be produced in San Francisco, Californians will be afforded the long cherished opportunity of witnessing this triumph of the modern playwright.

The play of "Barbara Frietchie" is much different from the poem of that name, inasmuch as it deals with a ravishing young Southern belle while the Barbara we read about in our school days was a grey haired old woman who alone defied the whole Confederate army and bravely waved the American flag in their faces as they marched through Fredericksburg after defeating the Union forces. The flag incident is brought out strongly in the play, proving a powerful climax to the stirring scenes that have preceded it. Barbara, through a Rebel and in a Rebel town, falls in love with a Union officer. Cupid overcomes her Southern prejudices and she soon looks upon the unfortunate struggle through the eyes of her Northern lover. In the fight to prevent Fredericksburg from being retaken the man of her choice is mortally wounded and after lingering through a night of terrible suspense to Barbara, breathes his last just as the Confederate army is heard victoriously entering the town.

In the midst of the frenzied reception accorded the troops by the populace, with Confederate flags displayed from every vantage point, Barbara staggers out on the balcony and unfurls the American flag of her dead lover. Upon sight of it the people and soldiers go mad with rage, crying out "Tear it down," "Shoot the Union Girl," while the men and boys commence to throw stones and bricks at the resolute woman. "Shoot," cries Barbara, "You've all ready taken the life of one dearer to me than my own life. Shoot. And I'll thank you. But spare your country's flag." Stonewall Jackson comes along and taking in the situation at a glance issues his famous order, "Who touches a hair of that young woman, dies like a dog. March on."

Presented as the great play will be at the California Theatre by James Neill and his celebrated company, it will have all the elaborate scenic embellishments that characterized the New York production. The Neill Company has the exclusive American rights to produce this play and no expense has been spared to stage it complete in every detail. The effect of the marching army in the last act is said to be really wonderful. Stonewall Jackson and his staff appear on horseback. A band follows playing "Dixie," then company after company of blood-stained and powder-begrimed soldiers march by. A drum and fife corps, more soldiers, until finally one would swear he had witnessed a parade of a thousand men. In honor of the patriotic occasion the managers of the California have extended an invitation to the President and his party to occupy boxes at one of the performances of "Barbara Frietchie."

Superior Court Notes

The calendar day proceedings in both departments of the Superior Court on Monday were of an interesting nature and brought together a large attendance of the members of the bar, as well as many other people who had business in the probate and civil departments.

In Judge Dougherty's department the proceedings in the W. P. Hinshaw estate were transferred to department two.

The final accounts were settled and distribution ordered of the estates of Peter Sposito and George W. Burrus.

A sale of real estate was confirmed in the estate of Anna H. Beck.

Sales of personal property were ordered in the estates of Patrick Riley and Samuel T. Szarvash. In the latter estate the sale was confirmed.

Anna L. Straub was appointed administratrix on the estate of Anton Pischel, in a bond of $100.

F. C. Mothorn was appointed guardian of the estate of Joseph L. Martin, a minor, in a bond of $300.

The estate of Hiram Wallace was ordered distributed.

The petition for a guardian of the estate of National J. Fernald was dismissed on motion of the petitioner.

An allowance of $25 per month was made in the matter of the estate and guardianship of the estate of B. T. E. Necker, for the education of said minor.

Distribution of the estate of William Ayers was ordered. The matter of the estate of Edward Surryhne was continued to May 13th.

The trial of the action of the Town of Cloverdale against Patrick Smith was reset for trial on May 28th.

The action of Brown vs. Volmer was submitted and taken under advisement.

The action of the Santa Rosa Bank vs. James F. Burgess was continued to May 13th.

The property of the estate of Hiram O'Keen was ordered distributed.

In Judge Burnett's department the calendar proceedings were as follows:

E. J. Armstrong was appointed guardian of the estate of Lewis A. Armstrong and others, minors, in a bond of $1,000 to each minor.

The matter of the demurrer to the second amended petition of Mrs. Cora L. Wickersham, as executrix, in the estate of Lydia C. Wickersham, was submitted.

In the matter of the petition for a homestead in the estate of the late W. P. Hinshaw, the demurrer to the petition was overruled.

The action of Charles Martin vs. Julia Barry and that of J. F. Sims vs. Petaluma Gaslight Company were continued to May 13th.

The Socrates mine case was continued: Fisherman's Bay Commercial Company vs. Henry McMillen et al., A. B. Riebli vs. F. P. Grace, and E. S. Shaver vs. Jas. Armstrong, all to May 13th.

Default was entered in the action of Meyer vs. Abraham and judgment was entered for the plaintiff in the sum of $876.64, principal and interest.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

There's nothing new about it. Your grandparents took it. 'Twas an old Sarsaparilla before other sarsaparillas were known. It made the word "Sarsaparilla" famous over the whole world. There's no other sarsaparilla like it. In age and power to cure it's "The leader of them all."

Ayer's Pills cure constipation. "After suffering terribly I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles and now feel like a new man. I would advise all my fellow creatures to try this medicine, for it has stood the test of time and its curative power cannot be excelled." I. D. Gooch, Brownstown, Va. Jan. 30, 1899.

Write the Doctor. If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice you can possibly receive, write the doctor freely. You will receive a prompt reply, without cost.

CITY TRUSTEES

AWARD CONTRACTS.

For Cleaning Ditches and Removing Grass From Plaza.

At an adjourned meeting of the City Trustees, held last Tuesday night, V. Bulotti, the new member appointed at the last meeting of the Board, and H. H. Davis, resigned, and a full Board were present.

The meeting was held for the purpose of receiving bids for cleaning the ditches that run through and alongside the Plaza and removing the grass from the same and the four surrounding streets.

Following bids were received for cleaning the ditches:

A. Caminati	$32.00
D. Valente	35.00
L. Gandolfi	19.00

The contract was awarded L. Gandolfi and he was instructed to file a bond in the sum of $50 for the faithful performance of the work, which will pay him about 75 cents a day.

Three bids were also received for cleaning the grass from the plaza:

A. Caminati	$40.00
D. Valente	37.00
L. Gandolfi	25.00

The contract was awarded the latter. By working fourteen hours a day and filing another bond of $50 Gandolfi ought to be able to pay out six bits or a dollar a day on this job.

D. Valente offered to cut and remove the crop of wild oats on the Plaza for $10. As he had no competitor his offer was accepted, provided he give a bond of $25.

At this meeting Ordinance No. 69, regulating the water rates, was passed to print and the Board adjourned to meet Wednesday night to consider city printing matters.

DO YOU WANT TO SEE THE PRESIDENT?

If So Take Advantage of a Half-Fare Rate to San Francisco.

Everybody ought to see President McKinley during his week's stay in San Francisco. In order to afford its patrons an opportunity to visit the city during the festivities attending the arrival and sojourn of the President in the metropolis the California Northwestern Railway Company, with an eye to the pleasure of those who travel over its main and branch lines, have announced a special half-fare rate from all stations north of San Rafael to San Francisco and return. These rates will prevail on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 14th to May 18th, inclusive, on all regular trains. See announcement in another column.

City Printing.

At an adjourned meeting of the City Trustees, held Wednesday evening, to discuss the matter of city printing for another year and to pass upon the INDEX-TRIBUNE's claim for doing the city's printing the past year, it was decided to re-advertise for bids.

A typographical error in the former call for bids invalidated the whole business in the opinion of some members of the Board and it was decided to be on the safe side by starting over again, inasmuch as by doing so it entailed no additional expense on the city.

No action was taken on the INDEX-TRIBUNE's claim for printing done under the old contract, amounting to less than $50.

The new call for bids appears in another column. They will be received on Wednesday evening, June 5th. For the benefit of the taxpayers we will state that for seventeen years the average yearly cost for doing the city's printing has averaged less than the City Attorney's salary—that is to say, $75 per annum.

County Taxes.

County Tax Collector Frank Grace turned in a neat sum of money into the coffers of Sonoma county on Monday, says the Press Democrat. The coin came from the collection of the second installment of taxes for the month of April, 1901. It footed up $87,258.48. In a few days Mr. Grace will know how much the delinquent taxes will make. He says, however, that the amount of uncollected taxes on the delinquent list will be small.

Beet Culture.

About four hundred acres of sugar beets have been planted this season on the upper ranch of the Senator Jones tract south of town. The young plants are looking thrifty since the recent rain and are growing rapidly. Fifteen Japs, who have been employed thinning out and cultivating the beets, left the ranch Tuesday for Reclamation to go to work in the beet fields at that place.

The Powers Estate.

On Wednesday Mrs. Mary E. Powers, widow of the late Pierce Powers of Glen Ellen, filed a petition in the Superior Court, through her attorney Robt. A. Poppe, asking the court to decree that the life estate of her deceased husband, embracing the Glen Ellen ranch, to have terminated when he died a few months ago.

CUTTING SCRAPE AT GLEN ELLEN.

A Hobo Slashes a Fellow Tramp With a Razor.

Four hobos made their appearance in Glen Ellen last Saturday and one of them was delegated to purchase a gallon of wine from the Chauvet winery, each hobo putting up his share of the money to purchase the liquid refreshment. Securing the wine the man made off with it for the purpose of enjoying a little booze all by himself. He was pursued and overtaken in the outskirts of town by his three companions who proceeded to do him up in regular hobo style. Being the under dog in the fight he drew a razor and commenced to slash right and left, severely cutting one of the men, all of whom sought safety in flight, leaving the razor yielding master of the situation and the jug of wine. Constable Allen did not arrest the offender as it was plainly a case of "doing up" or getting "done up."

He Ran Amuck.

H. Harris, a ranch hand employed at Black Point, near Novato, was arrested by Constable Devoto Saturday and taken to San Rafael on a warrant charging him with malicious mischief. A few days ago, it is alleged, Harris ran amuck among the houses in his vicinity, destroying furniture, breaking windows, and threatening the lives of the ranchers. A postoffice which lay in his path was badly smashed and Harris ended the disturbance by causing his aged sister to lock herself in a chicken house to protect her life.

P. I. Company vs. Carriger.

The civil suit of Carriger vs. the Pacific Improvement Company, involving the ownership of a small farm near El Verano, has again been postponed in the Superior Court of this county in Judge Burnett's department. Thursday the case went over until next Monday.

Sonoma Swiss Club.

A meeting of the Sonoma Swiss Club will be held to-morrow at the City Pavilion for the purpose of discussing the proposition to celebrate the anniversary of Switzerland's independence in this place next September. A new President will also be elected, vice A. G. Bulotti, who has gone to San Jose.

Burglarized.

In the inner circles of fast paces Joe Patchen has a high place. Whether started in a race against time he is the same desperate fighter, never letting up in his speed from the time he gets the word till he goes under the wire. Joe Patchen is not a one-day pacer; he can be depended upon to go a fast mile whenever called upon.

It would be a good thing for buyers of harness if they kept these qualities in mind when buying harness. If they did, they would not buy any old harness that happened along, but would stock up on Wilson's.

After fifteen years of trial, the public has found that he can always be depended upon. Like Joe Patchen, he is a stayer, is always the same, and is sure to give the highest satisfaction, therefore he enjoys the confidence of the people. It pays dealers to sell a high class article that will please their customers. Every harness that he sells will make a new friend or keep an old one. Therefore, when in need of anything in the harness line call on Chas. H. Wilson, 920 Main street, Petaluma, where will be found a full selection of harness, whips, robes, sponges, oil, etc.

THE CANNERY

PROPOSITION.

The cannery proposition was one of the principal topics of discussion at the Board of Trade meeting held last Saturday afternoon.

Fred. T. Duhring, Robt. Howe and Robt. Hall were appointed a committee to negotiate with the Rose Canning Company for the establishment of its plant in this place.

On Wednesday Messrs. Duhring, Hall and Howe had a conference with W. A. Rose and J. Suydam, representing the Rose cannery. The conference took place in the directors room of the Sonoma Valley Bank. The proposition to give the company an acre of land and a cannery building all ready to move into provided the cannery locates here, was well received by Messrs. Rose and Suydam. They were also informed that the California Northwestern Railway Company would put in a switch alongside the cannery should they decide to locate in Sonoma.

A decisive answer as to whether or not the cannery accepts the proposition will be given the committee of the Board of Trade not later than next Monday.

The way things look now the proposition made to the cannery people will no doubt be accepted.

NEW TIME SCHEDULE.

California Northwestern's Usual Summer Service

The new time schedule of the California Northwestern Railway Company, which went into effect on Monday of last week, greatly improves the passenger service on the Sonoma Valley Branch. Two passenger trains now run daily between Sonoma and San Francisco. One of these leaves Sonoma week days at 6:18 a.m. as formerly, and the other at 8:37 in the afternoon. On Sundays the morning train leaves at 6:40 o'clock and the afternoon train at 3:37. The morning train from San Francisco is scheduled to arrive here at 10:30 instead of at 10:30 as formerly.

Ned Martin Visits His Mother.

Ned Martin, son of Mrs. Fanny McG. Martin, formerly principal of the Sonoma Grammar School, ex-County School Superintendent and now successfully engaged in the practice of law in Santa Rosa, arrived in that town from Chicago last Thursday. Young Mr. Martin, who will be recollected by the old residents of Sonoma as a wee bit of a lad when he left here with his mother for the county seat, some ten or twelve years ago, has grown to man's estate and now holds a responsible and lucrative position in the office of the Illinois Central Railway in the City of Chicago.

Sad Death.

Mrs. Jas. Ahern of Tiburon died very suddenly at her home in that place yesterday morning. The deceased is a sister-in-law of Mrs. L. H. Green of this place. She leaves a husband and two young children. This family has been peculiarly unfortunate, having lost a little girl by drowning about a year ago and now the mother has gone to join the child. The bereaved husband is a brother of Mrs. Green and an engineer on the California Northwestern Railway.

Only a Lawyer.

When Justice Bookstaver was on the supreme court bench, he had as special officer or attendant a punctilious old German, who always stood guard at the door leading to the justice's private chambers when the justice was within. One day a prominent lawyer and two of his clients called and asked if the justice would receive them.

The officer threw open the door and called out loudly to the justice:

"Shudge! Two shentlemans und a lawyer wants to speak mit you."

The three gentlemen laughed.

"Vor what you laff, eh?"

"Don't you count me a gentleman?" asked the lawyer.

"Ach, you?" a lawyer only; dat's different."—New York Mail and Express.

A Crownless Coronation.

A coronation without a crown sounds distinctly Irish, yet such was in effect the ceremony in which Henry III took the most prominent part at Gloucester on Oct. 28, 1216. On this occasion a plain circle was used instead of a crown, which had been lost with the jewels and other baggage of King John in passing the marshes of Lynn or the Wash near Wisbeach.—London Telegraph.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale on my show case, said to me: 'I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore,' and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by F. Duhring.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Bled Quarts at a Time

"I am a knife maker and worked for a number of years in the New York Knife Co.'s factory at Walpole, N. Y. First thing I knew, I commenced to bleed from the mouth. Sometimes as much as a quart of blood would come up from my lungs at a time. Every time I coughed the blood spurted out. It was in the fall I got so bad, and the church people told me I had better make my peace with the Lord and prepare to die, for I would not live till spring. My home doctor couldn't do me any good, but advised me to get to New York City for examination. They finally took me to a medical college, and a whole lot of physicians made what they called a diagnosis. There were several students looking on. One professor had a little ivory hammer, and with this he pounded my chest and held his ear close to listen. After a while the professor looked at me solemnly and declared: 'One of your lungs is about gone and the other is affected. There may be a slim chance for life if you quit working in that knife factory.' I went back home, but didn't improve. One day I saw an advertisement of free samples of Acker's English Remedy for Consumption, being given away by our home druggists, Walker & Eaton. I got one of these bottles, and it relieved me. Then I bought more of the regular size, and my improvement was continuous, although slow. My doctors were astonished and so was I. After dark I hated to spit, because I was afraid it might be blood, and I wanted to know for sure. I have no fear now, for at last I am a solid man again. Although one lung is gone, the other is as sound as a dollar, and answers as well as two lungs, so far as I can see. I want everyone to know the facts and that is why I tell them here." (Signed) A. H. SIMPSON.

Acker's English Remedy is sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee that your money will be refunded in case of failure, 25c, 50c, and $1 a bottle in United States and Canada. In England, 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., and 5s. 6d.

Shrewd Peter the Great.

Peter the Great adopted rather a novel means to convince his subjects that they should change their clothes to conform with the modern costumes of western Europe. Believing, as is well known historically, that the future greatness of Russia depended upon the facility with which it was made to assimilate all that was best in other countries, he succeeded in introducing some important innovations into the half civilized region over which he held sway. At length he had patterns of cloth hung up at the gates of the towns, and those who did not conform to the fashions thus set were docked publicly, albeit this was done in as pleasant a manner as possible, for Peter believed in being good natured with his people. They, on the other hand, loudly denigrated and used the argument that what was good enough for their forefathers was good enough for them.

"Very well," said the sagacious Peter. In 1703 he gave a dinner at Moscow to celebrate the marriage of one of his jesters and insisted that it should be conducted in strict conformity with ancient usage. There had formerly been a superstitious custom of not lighting a fire on a wedding. So Peter made them do without a fire, although it was very cold. He wouldn't give them any wine, because their forefathers never drank it. When they remonstrated, he reminded them that it was a poor rule which did not work all around, and thus by his good natured greatness wheedled his people into new coats, about the hardest thing that can be done with humanity.

Eloquence and the Pen.
Our worthy forefathers were fond of rhetoric—particularly of funeral rhetoric—and were not always quick to perceive the dividing line between the sublime and the ridiculous. They seem, moreover, to have regarded the extraordinary as contributing an added and kindred element to the impressive. Many of their epitaphs show this, but few more completely than that of an estimable nation who perished untimely in Newburyport in the eighteenth century.

Her tombstone on the crest of the burying hill is yet easily legible, with no more trouble than scraping a bit of lichen here and there and kneeling to push away the long grass and intruding daisies. Thus it reads:

Sacred to the Memory of Mrs. Mary Melard The virtuous and estimable Consort of Captain William Melard of Newbury Port, who midst the laudable exertions of a very useful and desirable life, in which her Christian Profession was well adorned, and a fair cup of every social virtue displayed, was, in a state of health, suddenly summoned to the Skies & snatched from the embraces of her friends (and the throbbing hearts of her disconsolate family) confessed the fairest prospect of a sublimity bliss was in one moment dashed by Swallowing a Pear at her table, whence in a few hours she severely breathed her last away on the 8th day of March 1778, aged 47. This Monument Stone as a faithful Monument of Virtue and a just tribute to her memory, is erected by her husband.

—Youth's Companion.

George III and the Wigmakers.

When George III ascended the throne of England, his wealthy subjects were beginning to leave off wigs and to appear in their own hair, "if they had any." As the sovereign was himself one of the offenders, the peruke makers, who feared a serious loss of trade, prepared a petition, in which they prayed his majesty to be graciously pleased to "shave his head" for the good of distressed workmen and wear a wig, as his father had done before him.

When the petitioners walked to the royal palace, however, it was noticed that they wore no wigs themselves. As this seemed unfair to the onlookers, they seized several of the leading processionists and cut their hair with any implement that came most readily to hand.

From this incident arose a host of curious caricatures. The wooden leg makers, on the king's consideration, inasmuch as the conclusion of peace had deprived them of a profitable source of employment, hence the suggestion that his majesty should not only wear a wooden leg himself, but enjoin the people to follow his laudable example.

Very Meek.

"Did you trump my ace, dear?" asked Mr. Meekton, who was his wife's partner at whist.

"I did," she rejoined sternly. "What of it?"

"I merely inquired to relieve my mind," he answered, with a gentle smile. "It is a great comfort to know you trumped it. If any one else had trumped it, you know, we should have lost the trick."—Exchange.

Force of Habit.

One of the neatest arrests on record was effected by a policeman near Bourne, England, not long ago. Suspecting two men of being deserters, he stepped up behind them and called out sharply, "Attention!" Taken unawares, the men sprang to position in true military style, only to find themselves the next moment in the arms of the law.

As to Gushers.

"My dear," said a careful mother to her daughter, "don't gush."

"Very well, mamma," replied the dutiful girl, "but you know that in the oil regions it is the gushing wells that are thought the most of."

"But you must also bear in mind that it is the unrefined oil which gushes."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Japanese Story Tellers.

Professional story tellers roam from house to house in Japan to spin their yarns. In the city of Tokyo there are about 600 of these professional romancers. Their pay averages 20 cents an hour. When the story teller discovers that his romances are becoming dull from frequent repetition, he moves into a new district.

A Few Pointers.

The recent statistics of the number of deaths show that the large majority die of consumption. This disease may commence with an apparently harmless cough which can be cured instantly by Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, which is guaranteed to cure and relieve all cases. Price 25c and 50c. For sale by all druggists.

Evasion.

"See here, you sir!" cried her father. "Didn't I tell you never to enter my house again?"

"No, sir, you didn't," replied the persistent suitor. "You said not to cross your threshold, so I climbed in the window."—Exchange.

Not Entirely Alone.

As he entered the car he saw at a glance that there was one seat with a young lady in it, and he marched straight down the aisle, deposited his overcoat, sat down and familiarly observed:

"I entirely forgot to ask your permission."

"That's of no consequence," she replied.

"Thanks. Just arrived in the city, I presume," he ventured to remark as he glanced at the bundles and grips on the floor near by.

"Not exactly."

"Almost, but not quite. My husband is the conductor on this car, the motor-man is my cousin and my father and a brother are in the seat back of us."

"Aw! Aw! I see," gasped the man, and the floor of the car suddenly became so red-hot that he lit out without another word.—Salt Lake Herald.

Babies in Greenland.

The babies of the baby Eskimo are not always one of older down. There are times of famine now and then when the condition of the ice makes hunting impossible, and old and young starve to death. Cases have been known on both shores of Baffin bay where babies have been eaten by starving adults, but infanticide in Greenland is unknown because of a belief that the spirit of a murdered infant turns into an evil spirit called Angiak that forever haunts the entire village and brings endless misery and distress.

When a friend is in trouble, don't ask, "Can I do anything?" Do something.—Acheson Globe.

Do but half of what you can, and you will be surprised at your own diligence.

Weak.

"Do you know that Nixter is so weak that he can't stand alone?" asked Browne.

"Good gracious, no," replied Jones.

"What is the matter with him?"

"Why, I asked him if he could stand a loan of 10 shillings and he said he couldn't."—London Fun.

What a Curio Is.

"What is a curio, father?"

"A curio is a piece of china that your mother has had spinned to her through the devastating dynasties of seven or eight cooks."—London King.

"You can convince a woman that the earth isn't round," said the breakfast cynic, "but you can't convince her that the druggist doesn't make 50 per cent profit on postage stamps."—Philadelphia Record.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)

In the days of "wild cat" money in the West, the American shoveler was used as currency. They were as stable as gold, their price did not vary a cent in twenty years. The very name of Oliver Ames & Son, was a synonym for honesty. It was current all over the world.

On the same principle Benson's Porous Plaster is the universal standard external remedy. To say it is a "good" plaster does not describe it; it is the best possible plaster. For every disease in which an external remedy is available, Benson's Plaster is used almost as a matter of course.

Benson's Plaster quickly relieves and cures where other modes of treatment are either unobtainable or slow or have no good effect whatever. Coughs, colds, lumbago, kidney trouble, rheumatism, lame back, etc., are at once benefited and soon cured. Capsicum, Strengthening and Belladonna plasters have none of the curative virtues of Benson's. More than 5,000 physicians and druggists have commended Benson's Plaster as a remedy in which the public may have implicit confidence; while, in a comparative test with other plasters, Benson's has received highest awards. Beware of substitutes and cheap imitations. For sale by all druggists or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each. Seabury & Johnson, Mfg. Chemists, N. Y.

At Bed Time.

I take a pleasant herb drink, the next morning I feel bright and my complexion better. My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a gentle laxative. It is made from herbs, and is prepared as easily as tea. It is called Lane's Medicine. All druggists sell it at 25c and 50c. Lane's family medicine moves the bowels each day. If you cannot get it send for a free sample. Address, Orator F. Woodward, Le Roy, N. Y.

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handed a note to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began: "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure." This was hardly what he expected and, after a moment's hesitation, he turned it over, and found on the other side the matter intended for the reading.

ACKER'S ENGLISH REMEDY WILL.

sore a cough at any time, and will cure the most cold in twelve hours, or money refunded. 15c and 50c. For sale by R. G. Shoultz Druggist Sonoma.
